WOMAN IS FROZEN TO DEATH

LISBON IS DESIGNATED FOR LENGEL TRIAL

Stark County Court Grants Former Police Chief Change of Venue

A Man Will Face Jury Second Time for Alleged Complicity in Don Mellett Murder sometime in February. Common Pleas Judge Edwin W. Diehl Decides.

ENDANT ONE OF FIVE SENTENCED. FOUR OTHERS IN STATE PRISON

nted New Trial by Appellate Tribunal, he Was Transferred From Penitentiary to Canton Jail and Later Was Released on Bond—Stoutly Protests Innocence of Crime.

S. A. Lengel, former Canton chief of police, will be brought to a second time for alleged complicity in the Don Mellett murder plot, sometime in February at Lisbon.

Common Pleas Judge Edwin W. Diehl, at Canton, today granted the ex-chief a change of venue and designated Lisbon as the place of trial.

In his first trial, Lengel was convicted of first degree murder in connection with the assassination of Mellett, Canton publisher, in July, 1926, and was sentenced to the state penitentiary for life, the jury having recommended mercy. He was the last of five men sent to the state prison for participation in the crime.

Granted New Trial Dec. 1.

Granted a new trial by the seventh district appellate court, Lengel, on December 1, was transferred from the penitentiary to the Stark county jail here. Later he was released on bond. Pat McDermott, Ben Rudner, Floyd Streitenberger, and Louis Mazer, the men who preceded him to the penitentiary for complicity in the Mellett crime, are still confined there.

Lengel has steadfastly protested his innocence.

SIX FLEE $6,000 FIRE AS ZERO WEATHER PREVAILS

With the mercury registering zero mark, six of the household of C. E. Bailey, including two children, were forced to flee into the open when their eight-room home in the Ohioville-Smith's Ferry road was destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock Sunday night. The loss was estimated at $6,000.

RICHARDSON GETS TOWNSHIP BOARD PLACE

Former Court Clerk Succeeds Trustee Persohn.

LATTER RESIGNS

Appointment Made by Ex-Justice C. W. Powell.

A. U. Richardson, former clerk of the Columbiana county common pleas courts, has been appointed a member of the township board of trustees to take the place of George Persohn, Dresden avenue butcher, resigned, it was announced today.

Richardson's appointment was made by C. W. Powell, whose commission as justice of the peace did not expire until midnight December 31, 1927. He immediately qualified for the post and will serve the two-year term to which Persohn was elected in November.

Persohn, the oldest member of the board from point of service, had been unable to attend meetings for several months because of illness. He led the township ticket in the contest for trustee at the November election.

Board Organizes Friday.

Attorney General Turner recently ruled that the municipal judge had no authority to fill a vacancy on the board of trustees although he had taken over the duties of former justice of the peace. Until the establishment of the municipal court here vacancies on the board were filled by the justice of the peace serving for the longest period. From the nature of the attorney general's ruling, any vacancy occurring after the expiration of the justice's commission could not be filled except by a vote of the electors at the next general election according to an interpretation of the prosecuting attorney's office.

Following a conference between members of the old board of trustees and Powell, the appointment of Richardson to Persohn's place, was announced. Richardson was sworn in by J. T. Croxall, chairman of the board.

COASTER'S SKULL IS FRACTURED

George, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Casey, Warren, O., is confined in the Warren City hospital today, suffering from a fractured skull sustained when he crashed into an automobile while coasting near his home on December 24. He has never regained consciousness.

The lad is a grandson of Mrs. William O'Reilly, Orion avenue, Chester.

at the homes of Ernest Carpenter, Michigan avenue; Wilbert Anderson, St. George street, and Robert Brown, 1070 St. George street.

The fire at the Bailey home was caused, it is believed by a defective fire in an upstairs bedroom occupied by the Bailey children. Awakening her children, Mrs. Bailey wrapped a quilt about her four-year-old daughter, Ruby, and assisted them into the yard. Bailey, with Ralph Kreps, 19 and Halley Eagle, 25, who made their home with the Bailey's, formed a bucket brigade but their efforts to extinguish the blaze were without avail.

So rapidly did the fire spread that little clothing could be saved. The fire at the Carpenter home at 9 o'clock Sunday morning was caused by an overheated furnace. Firemen from the No. 1 and 2 stations responded to the alarm.

The blaze in the Anderson home occurred at 4:55 o'clock Monday morning. Anderson was awakened by smoke and, investigating, found fire in the dining room. Firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals after a hole was burned through the floor.

Slight damage was done to the Brown home at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire was caused when a blow torch being used by Brown to thaw water pipes in the bath room ignited waste material. Firemen from the East End Station extinguished the blaze with water before the arrival of the No. 1 department.

NAMED TRUSTEE

Three new members—Glenn, J. T. Croxall and Dr. Collin F. Kinsey—were sworn in by Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer of the board. They took the places of D. F. White, George Wilhelm and F. T. Weaver, whose terms have expired.

The old board convened at the regular hour but no business was considered. After they adjourned sine die, the new members qualified and the meeting reconvened.

Meetings will be held on the first and third Thursday of each month, the board decided. A special session will be held Monday, January 16.

FIVE HURT AS FRIGID WAVE CAUSES WRECK

B. & O. Express Train Derailed at Ravenrock.

SCORE ESCAPE Wintery Blasts Break Two Pieces of Rail.

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 3.—Five passengers were injured and a score escaped when the Kenova-Pittsburgh express on the Ohio river division of the B. & O. was derailed at Ravenrock, W. Va., early today. Zero weather is said to have been partly responsible for the broken rail which caused the wreck.

The injured were attended by doctors from St. Marys, W. Va., and the more seriously hurt were taken to hospitals in that city. Nearly the whole train left the track and two day coaches and a pullman overturned. Two pieces of rail, each a foot long, had broken loose. The locomotive passed over and remained on the track. None of the trainmen suffered injury.

Daniel Welsh, of Ravenswood, W. Va., and a man named Kiefer, of Ashland, Ky., were most seriously injured. Both were hurt about the body and chest. Others who were hurt were members of a railroad carpenter gang and two are negroes.

BODY IS FOUND IN FIRELESS JETHRO HOME BY NEIGHBORS

Believed to have been frozen to death, the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Portman, 80, was found in her home in Negley street, Jethro, at 5:30 o'clock last night. She had been dead for about 24 hours.

Leaves One Son.

The discovery was made by James Potts, a neighbor, when he went to the Portman home to start a fire. He found Mrs. Portman lying on a cot in a room which had been spread on floor of her bedroom. There were fires in the house.

The body was removed to the Miller funeral home, West Sixth street, where Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, Palestine, will conduct an inquest.

Neighbors who had been about the house, she leaves one son, Henry Portman, who lived with mother.

30 ARE DEAD IN COLD WAVE

Backbone of Zero Attack Broken in Chicago.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—With more than 60 persons already dead, no immediate let-up in the nation-wide cold wave was in sight today. Warmer weather is promised for tomorrow, however, in the east gulf states, Florida, the Ohio Valley and over the lower lake region.

"Fair and continued cold" was the forecast for today and tomorrow in other states east of the Mississippi. At least 30 are dead in Chicago alone. Ten deaths were reported from St. Louis and four succumbed in New York city.

As far south as Atlanta, Ga., the mercury dropped to within one degree above zero. Other southern states experienced the coldest weather in many years. It was two above zero at Northfield, Vt., and several degrees below in up-state New York and Chicago. The coldest temperature yet reported is 34 below at Bismarck, N. D.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—With 30 fatalities in its wake, the backbone of Chicago's zero cold wave has been broken and today will see a slight rise in temperature.

This was the cheering news that came from the weather forecast station this morning. Moderation will be gradual, it was announced, with today's minimum temperature predicted at 5 above zero and the maximum 14 above. A steady rise to normal is predicted for the next two days.

Of the 30 victims reported in the Chicago district since the intense cold gripped the city, a score were killed in various traffic accidents incidental to the blizzard and heavy snowfall.

500 PUPILS FLEE AS FIRE RAGES

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3.—The value of fire drills in public schools was demonstrated here today when 350 pupils at St. Peter's school building marched out in orderly procession as the structure was threatened by fire.

The flames originated from an overheated stove. Sister Amelia, in charge of the room where the fire started, instructed her 28 pupils to form in line and march out as they ordinarily do in fire drills. Pupils' rooms also fled out in orderly line.

Today

Work, the Real Thing.

Who'll Equal Lindbergh?

The Age of Opportunity.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The opinions expressed in this column are solely those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of the Review-Tribune.

WORK is the real thing so the real year begins tomorrow. There is time to patch a broken resolution, change a poor one. The big event of the dead year in public opinion imagination, was Lindbergh's flight to Paris. One year ago, no one would have dreamed of a man, one year hence some man, now unknown, will be the man of the hour. It is a matter of time and will power.

The big political event of 1927 was the election of Coolidge. "I Do Not Choose." The big political event this year will be choosing two men that choose to run.

The overwhelming feature of 1927 prosperity spelt with gigantic capital letters. The magic word pronounced to run through 1928 and on to 1929. National common sense called it so. Every sound thing in this country becomes more valuable each year. Everything booms, values, opportunities, real estate, industry. This man of this year has before him chances unknown to former times. He has eyes let him see and then work. Seeing is not enough.

ASK the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours company about the possibilities of financial gain in "the good old U. S. A." ten years ago, that company invested $250,000 in stocks of the General Motors Company. Today that stock is worth $550,000,000, nearly ten times what it cost. And in 1927 it paid $50,000,000. Such things can be done in this land of opportunity.

"Ah," says foolish youth, "but Du Pont had $56,250,000 to invest. I have not got that. Why talk to me of opportunity?" Henry Ford did not have that sum a few years ago, either. He was earning $100 a month as a watchman. But while he watched, he thought. He got a good idea, stuck to it, carried it out. He's richer than Du Pont. And 25 years hence some one will be richer than he and get the money out of an idea, out of some corner of the brain, smaller than the head of a pin. Cultivate your brain. Keep it working.

IN national progress, the great thing to hope and work for is the building of great waterways, from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic and the Gulf, the development of water power, the use of power for power and irrigation of the Colorado. Write to your senators and your congressmen that, and if you do nothing else, your year will be wasted.

PERMIT STREET CURB CUTTING

One of the last acts of the borough council which went out of office last night was acceptance of a report of the street committee recommending that A. B. Patch, garageman, be granted permission to cut the curb in front of his Midland avenue garage for a driveway.

The report, however, declared that the practice of cutting Midland avenue curbing is unsatisfactory and advocated the adoption of legislation prohibiting future breaks. Patch will be required to post a bond for replacement of the section of curb when he moves or abandons his garage.

Letter received from J. H. Maxwell, president of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, attempting to dissuade council from proceeding with legislation adopted at an earlier meeting to require establishment of a five-cent fare within the borough and an overlapping zone on eastbound service was referred to Solicitor Richard S. CHAPTER XXXII.

"This morning there was a meeting in Jonas Merriwether's office. That was at ten o'clock. There was a general agreement that there could be no turning back. It would have spelled ruin for several of the men—including Borden—and financial embarrassment even to Merriwether. Merriwether was rather nasty about the whole thing. He and Borden have never been particularly friendly—in-junctive antipathy. I suppose you'd call it. There was a hint of mismanagement. A bit of acrid debate. But the result was inevitable. It was decided that these men should pledge a portion of their available personal fortunes to supply the cash needed temporarily by the company to tide over the present crisis. It is, of course, a solid company. Within a year they'll be making a great deal of money. But this pressure is immediate—and could be ruinous.

The credit of the company—as a company—is exhausted. But the personal fortunes of the stockholders were still available.

"Briefly, then, this is what happened: at eleven o'clock this morning, Merriwether and his associates delivered to Peter Borden more than $200,000 worth of negotiable securities, largely, I understand, unregistered government bonds. This was in the nature of a loan to themselves. Borden was instructed, as operating vice president, to post these bonds as security with the First National bank for a loan of $200,000 on behalf of the corporation. Borrowing cash on cash security. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir."

"Borden, as an individual, receded to these men, as individuals, for the bonds. They were turned over to him before noon. Now"—Carmody leaned forward and focused his beady eyes full on Terry's face—"now follow me in this, Terry: Peter Borden should have gone immediately to the bank and either effected that loan or placed those bonds in his safety deposit box."

"Yes, sir."

"He did neither!" Carmody's face was granite hard. "He did neither; inexcusable carelessness, mind you." Silence. Bob did not yet understand, and he groped for this thing which had turned Carmody into a steel spring.

"He was engrossed in his work. It was Saturday. He went back to his desk—with $200,000 worth of negotiable government bonds. Bonds which can be handled almost as readily as money. He immersed himself in his work all afternoon. And tonight, Bob Terry—tonight he took those bonds home with him!"

His voice ceased—with the suddenness of a blow. Bob half closed his eyes. He recalled a circumstance of Borden's home-coming: the small, tired man; the brief case; the greeting of Lois—and then Borden's trip to the wall safe where he put some thing.

Two hundred thousand dollars! Bob felt his heart pounding. Business worries—worries which had graven little horizontal lines in Peter Borden's forehead. And $200,000 of other men's money reposed in his antiquated wall safe!

It did not occur to Terry to ask how Carmody obtained his information. It was a silent tribute to the man that he accepted statements as facts. Carmody knew everything. Bob knew that Carmody's information was accurate. His mind moved laboriously ahead; he wasn't yet accustomed to quick thinking.

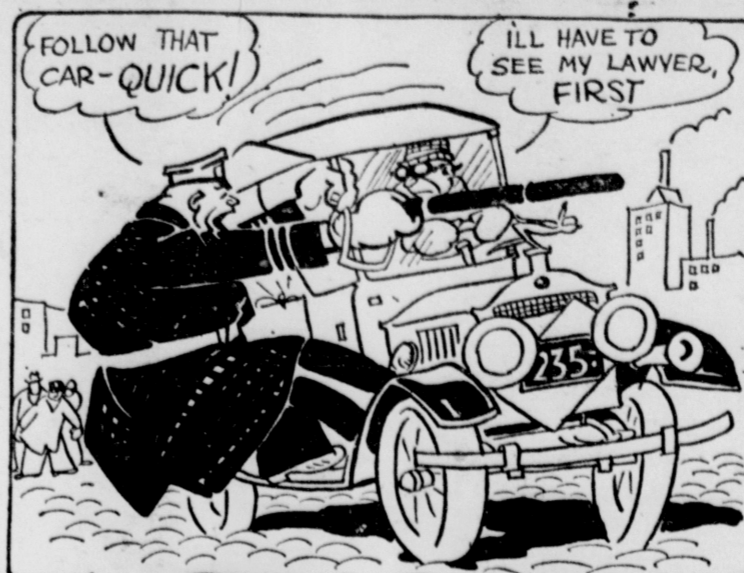

"Do you see what it means?" Carmody's voice came to him as from a great distance, and he answered in a low, tense voice, "I—I think so."

"Merriwether does not like Borden. He resents Borden's management of affairs—the management which has caused him to invest more recklessly in this than he has ever invested in anything else in his whole life. I understand that fully half of that money is Merriwether's. Now, then, Terry, suppose—just suppose that those bonds were stolen? Suppose that on Tuesday morning when Borden went to his safe, they had disappeared? Can you see what would happen then?"

Bob's eyes narrowed. He did see. And the thin voice of John Carmody made the picture crystal clear.

"The bonds are gone. Two hundred thousand dollars' worth. Today is

AIDS COP, LOSES AUTO LICENSE

Nathan Margolis, of Boston, has lost his auto license. It was taken from him by State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin. Margolis claims he was speeding with a patrolman in his car (the latter was chasing two suspected bandits) when Margolis' car struck and killed a pedestrian. Manslaughter charges were dismissed but Margolis lost the right to drive his machine. So, if a policeman jumps on your running board and says, "Catch that car!" what are you going to do? Photos show Margolis left, and Goodwin right.

Saturday. The man who takes them will have until Tuesday morning to cover his tracks. Monday is Labor Day—a legal holiday. No barks open. The bonds are gone. Borden calls a meeting of his directors. He reports the loss of the bonds. Two hundred thousand dollars' worth. That is a great deal of money.

"There is consternation. They demand to know what those bonds were doing in his home. He has no defense there. They should have been in the bank. It was gross carelessness on his part. Of course those men—even Merriwether—will not think that he stole them. But they will rage because he has been careless, and because $200,000 is a great deal of money. A very great deal. Especially to Jonas Merriwether—who is the richest of them all. They will demand that Borden return the money. And he can't return it, Terry—because he hasn't a cent. He is a wealthy man only if that plant is successful. He hasn't a penny now, aside from his very modest checking account at the First National bank and the home he lives in. Every nickel is invested in that plant.

"There is the chance that he will arouse the anger of Merriwether. Just a chance. If he does that, he will be charged with embezzlement. And even if he isn't—he will be in a desperate position. He will know that he is guilty of criminal neglect—and you may imagine for yourself what that will do to a man as conscientious as Peter Borden."

Again that abrupt, dramatic cessation of speech. Carmody's face was in sharp relief; his eyes blazed with hatred of Borden.

"Embezzlement!" He said the word, slowly—uncertainly. "Can't you understand that, Bob Terry? You were tried for embezzlement. You were convicted of committing an embezzlement which you did not commit. You had not even been careless. You know the shame of it, the horror, the helplessness. Even if you had not been sent to prison, it would have ruined your life to have gone through that trial. Imagine the effect of that situation on a man like Peter Borden. Just because he has contributed to this thing by his carelessness he will suffer torture. He will scourge himself. He will go through all that you went through—and more."

"Here is your revenge, Terry. It is a glorious opportunity. You not only ruin Borden, you not only cause him agony of soul, you not only break his spirit—but, by God! you do it in almost the same way that he did it to you. You place him in the position of an embezzler. That's what he did to you. You give him the precise type of suffering that you experienced. You teach him what he taught you—and you enjoy it because you know every stab of pain he is bearing; you can understand every thought. Jonas Merriwether will try him for embezzlement, Terry—not because he is conscientious, but because he will want to save something of his $100,000. What Borden did to you because he believed it was his duty. Merriwether will do to him because his pocketbook has been touched."

"Peter Borden arrested for embezzlement! Think of the headlines! Borden, the embezzler! Then it will be your turn to laugh! You could never have expected such a thing as this, Terry. Nothing so perfect—nothing so sardonically on all fours with the crime for which he sent you to hell. And now—"

His voice softened. It grew almost pleading.

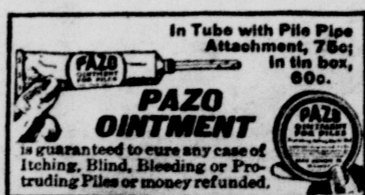

"And now, lad—what do you say? Will you take this revenge—or won't you?"

Terry was in a daze. He had fallen under the hypnotic spell of Carmody's words. "You mean—that I am to steal—those bonds?"

"Why not? You told me that nothing in the world mattered but revenge on Borden. Very well, here is your chance. It couldn't be better. Your opportunity to break him on the identical wheel he used to torture you! Suppose this is a criminal act: Would you have had a criminal turn of mind if it hadn't been for him? Would you? Didn't he send you down to the state penitentiary to associate on terms of equality with burglars and murderers and highwaymen? Wasn't Peter Borden the spirit that drove you into those grim, gray walls where you were less than an animal? And should he have the right to resent it if you absorbed a lesson during those three bitter years which enables you to commit this offense without a twinge of conscience? Good! God! Terry—can't you see that this is a balancing of the scales? Can't you?"

The boy was bewildered. Carmody's logic was relentlessly unanswerable. After all, it was merely a putting in to words of the thoughts which he himself had nurtured for nearly four years.

King Winter Reigns

East Liverpool was still in the grip of a cold wave today, which has claimed a toll of more than 60 lives throughout the nation. At least 30 are dead in Chicago alone. Ten deaths were reported in St. Louis and four persons succumbed in New York City. Other fatalities were scattered.

The weather man promises relief from near-zero temperatures tomorrow in the Ohio valley, lower lake region and east gulf states and Florida.

In the summer time people are at the mercy of the weather. If it gets insufferably hot, they have to endure it just the same. In the winter, though they complain a good deal about the cold, they have a great advantage. Then they can control the temperature indoors, where they spend most of their time.

And what do they do? Keep the house and office absurdly hot that they make themselves uncomfortable and sick.

A few degrees of temperature make all the difference. The best temperature for the house, says Dr. C. E. Dinslow of the Philadelphia health department, is 64 to 68 degrees. Others allow a temperature as high as 69 to 70. But it is a very common thing, especially in flats and stores, to keep the heat up around 75 or 80.

That dries out everything and everybody. Even a slight excess of temperature, say the health authorities, works havoc with the respiratory organs, inviting colds and pneumonia. People who would be comfortable, hale and hearty at 66 or 68 degrees are sick at 78. And the sicker they get, for some accountable reason, they seem to think they have to make it still hotter and drier.

Much of this foolishness comes from not wearing enough clothing. The healthful and sensible way in winter is to wear warmer clothing, cut down the indoor heat and save fuel and health at the same time.

Philosophy

This being a time of year when all the varied groups of high-brows get together and fraternize in their cool upper air, the philosophers may be permitted a word or two. They gathered in Chicago the other day and took note of the state of philosophy in America, and concluded that their business was looking up.

Americans, said Prof. Hocking of Harvard, are really taking an interest in philosophy, a fact already observed in connection with Prof. Will Durant's best seller. Not only are our people reading philosophy, but as they break the intellectual ice and get better acquainted, they are beginning to demand more of it.

"The public now expects philosophy to have something to say in regard to industry, art, politics, education, religion, war-making and drama."

That sounds reasonable enough, if philosophy is what it professes to be—a system of thought that is above all the arts and sciences, seeking to explain them all, put them all in their places and weave them into a logical system.

The speaker seems to have gone pretty far, though, when he defined philosophy as "wisdom which always will find a hearing." True philosophers have often been put to death or exiled because the people didn't want to hear them.

Another Air Sacrifice

Undeterred by the failure of Mrs. Frances Grayson and her crew in their effort to fly the stormy Atlantic, and the failure of several predecessors who started out under more favorable weather conditions, Thea Rasche, German flyer, still talks of making an Atlantic flight in the spring. She is now in this country, studying American aviation development.

She can probably do more good in that way than in attempting a feat in which, if precedents count for anything, the chances are for failure.

If lucky, Miss Rasche may be a Ruth Elder, making a fine gesture and emerging safe as by a miracle, in triumph though with her object unattained. At worst, it is Davy Jones' locker for her and her pilot and navigator.

The public always applauds courage, but the public is losing enthusiasm for these performances which, in the present stage of development, are little more than rashness. Why the continued sacrifices? Aviation should be developed on land, under conditions as safe as may be found, until it is far enough advanced to embark on long sea voyages securely.

A Famous Bedspread

That bedspread knitted by Mrs. Coolidge during the residence of the presidential family in the Black Hills last summer seems destined to become historic.

It bears on one side the name of Abraham Lincoln, with the dates 1861-1865, and on the other the name of Calvin Coolidge, with the dates 1923-1929. In the center is the coat of arms of the United States.

Particular point is given to this piece of handiwork by the statement, from a woman friend of Mrs. Coolidge, that it was finished before the president gave out his famous ten-word statement about "not choosing." When the friend questioned Mrs. Coolidge's dates, Mrs. Coolidge calmly replied that she "knew what she was doing." Presumably the Coolidges had talked the matter over, that quiet lodge in the hills, and come to a definite understanding about it.

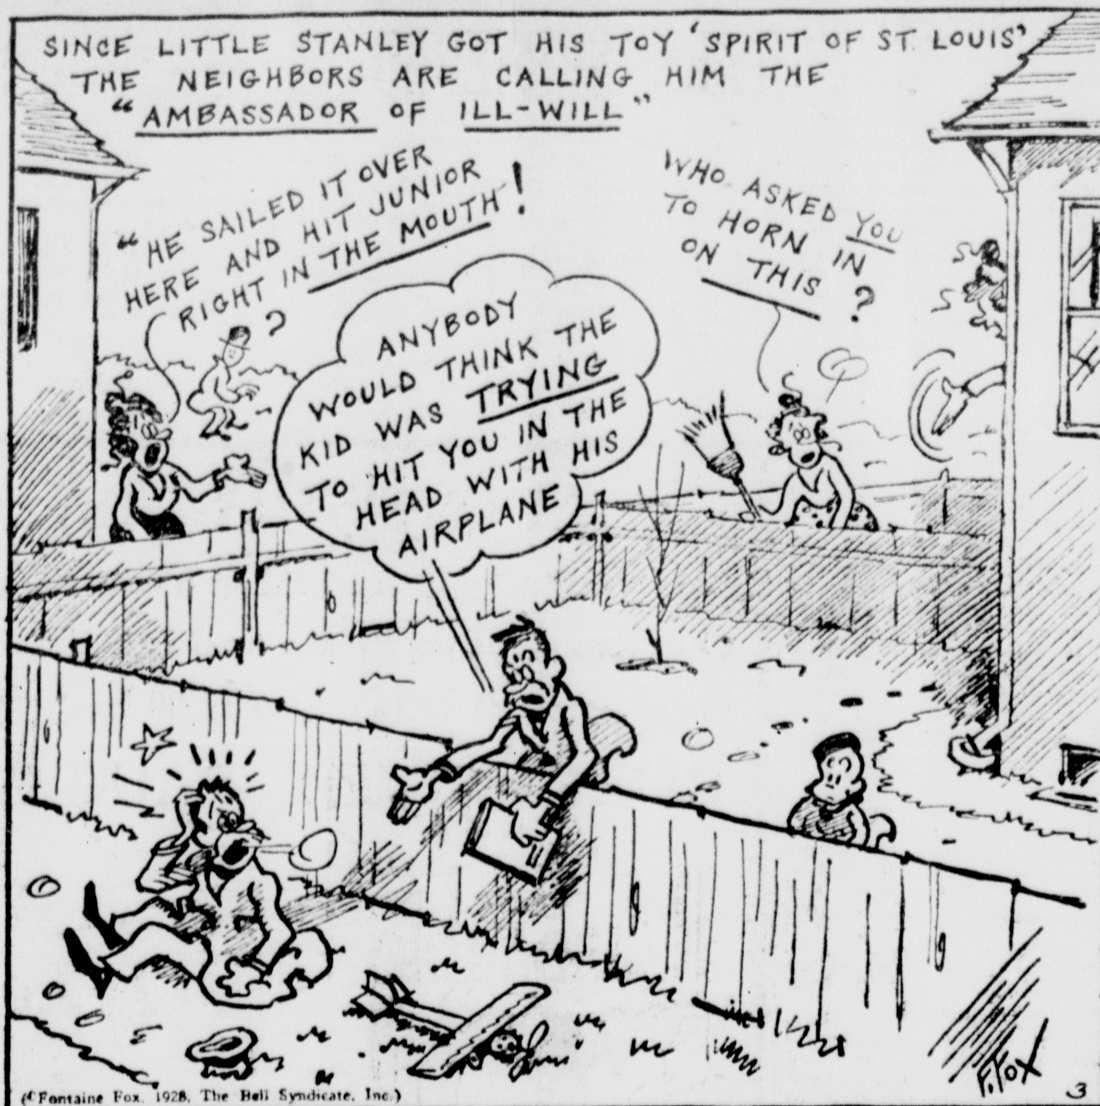

Some day that bedspread may find its way into a history museum, if not an art museum.

Making Crime Attractive

Couldn't some lawyer with imagination and backbone find a technicality which would get a grip on the mawkish sentimentalism displayed over a murderer, and make the writers of mash notes and sob notes, the givers of gifts and food and flowers, "accessory after the fact"?

These misguided and morbid people think they are giving sympathy to the down-trodden, but what they are really doing is manifesting sympathy and approval of crime.

Neighborhood News—

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Manhattan shows its amazing tolerance in its attitude toward theatre pests. Last night a man who came in with a noisy party in the middle of the second act sat directly in front of me to spend the rest of the evening clowning as an orchestra leader.

It is not unusual for a couple suddenly to lose interest in a play and begin discussion of personal matters that may be heard several rows away. There have been times when players were forced to halt their lines until the nose out front subsided. And no city in the world has so many theatre coughers.

There are those who consider it a personal affront to have to rise to permit patrons to reach their seats. Lulled by too many pre-dinner cocktails, there also seems to be always a professional snorer who gives his entire repertoire, including a whistle number.

It was Frazier Hunt who, annoyed by theatre talkers, during a tense moment of a drama, turned and implored sweetly: "Would you mind conversing a little louder? They make so much noise on the stage I can only catch snatches of what you are saying."

Among some theatre-goers there is a disposition to come to the theatre with a smart attitude toward the play and players. They become a self-appointed critical bishopric to tip-off to those about them a lot of unsolicited criticism.

New Yorkers, who often fly off the handle when a crossing cop suggests a little haste or a waiter seems a trifle slow, will endure rudeness in a theatre in complete silence. The annoyance is almost invariably down stairs among purchasers of choice seats.

Experienced theatre-goers have learned the balcony offers freedom from interruptions of this sort. Balcony patrons are those who have come to see the show and not to be seen themselves. And, as for the gallery, well, just start something there and you'll be leaving soon.

There is nothing so depressing as a night club when edges of one night have worn off. Musicians, waiters and hat checkers fall into a pronounced sulk waiting to close. Fetid air from stale cigarettes and hooch accentuate the gloom. The sprinkling of hangers-on remain to the last. There are the pastry drug addicts with gloriously bright eyes, the suave black-mailing night hawks, the reigning Broadway nympholete, the moist eyed gold digger spilling her 18 karat woe.

Abe Martin Says:

It wuz thought fer awhile this mornin' that Joe Lark had dropped dead in front of a show window, but he wuz layin' on his back tryin' t' read th' price tag on a lounjin' robe. I bet a Spitzbergen night club would be a nice, sleepy affair.

By Fontaine Fox

G. Harding, Republican, and that is being a bit important. New York did it in 1904, but any other State that has done it recently or often can stand up and be counted, or have her picture taken, if States can have photographs made of them.

Never Have to Be Drafted.

And it is to be remembered that Ohioans never have to be drafted when the country needs a couple of presidential candidates. They are always volunteers and never a man from that State has ever said "I do not choose to run for President." They begin running for President out in Ohio as soon as they learn how to walk, just as in Indiana they begin writing books as soon as they know their ABC's.

For 1928, be it known, Ohio has an interesting array of more or less able and eminent citizens who are willing to take over Mr. Coolidge's arduous duties.

On the Democratic side of the political fence there are Governor Donahy, and former Senator Atlee Pomerene, and former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, and former presidential nominee James M. Cox, any one of whom will go to the front if his party and his country need him.

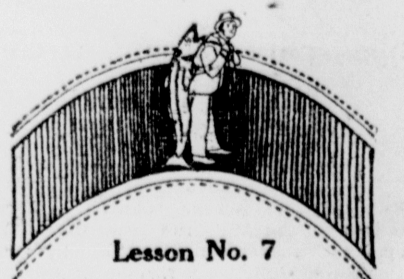

On the other side there are Senator Frank B. Willis, Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the National House of Representatives, Senator Simeon D. Fess, and Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who are quite as willing as Barkis ever was.

Senator Willis has told the well known world that if the G. O. P. wants a big, upstanding candidate for President he's all ready and rearin' to go. He has been just as frank and outspoken about that as Senator Curtis, of Kansas, who was the first avowed candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, and he bids fair to be his State's "favorite son" when the Republican hosts assemble in Kansas City next June.

Speaker Longworth was talked of for President long before Senator Willis mentioned himself in that connection, but, whatever his aspirations and plans, he has not as yet taken the public into his confidence. He may be a candidate and he may not be, but if anybody gets careless and leaves the nomination lying around loose and unprotected it need occasion no surprise if the gentleman from Cincinnati grabs it up and runs off with it.

Fess Hasn't 'Fessed up— Senator Fess is to be reckoned with in the Republican presidential situation. (Continued on Page Twelve)

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Ohio Pivotal as Usual.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3.—In presidential campaigns Ohio is proverbially a pivotal State. Nominations and elections often depend upon what Ohio does or how she feels. At least, that is the tradition, and the talk among the politically wise now is that in 1928 Ohio will be just as pivotal as ever. Maybe more so.

Ohio occupies this key position in national politics because no one can ever be sure what she is going to do. She is just as likely to go Democratic as she is Republican, although her record is rather more Republican than otherwise, and she has pulled off some half and half stunts like being Republican for the national ticket and Democratic for the state.

And she has done unusual things in national conventions, like being for Sherman and then nominating Garfield, and insisting on Taft when the country wanted Roosevelt, and getting away with it when the experts said it couldn't be done.

The candidate who carries Ohio at the election almost always gets himself a four-year lease on the White House. Take the more recent of the uncertainties in national politics, for instance, Charles Evans Hughes would have been elected President in 1916 if he could have carried Ohio. Much has been said and written about his defeat and the important part California played in it. It is quite true that the result in California was closer, and that the final returns from that State were more delayed, but it should be borne in mind that if Mr. Hughes had carried Ohio he would never have had to worry over California. Ohio's 24 electoral votes were far more important than California's 13, and Ohio was one of the States that the Republican campaign managers were absolutely sure of carrying in 1916. That Ohio did the unexpected then is one of the big reasons she is classed as pivotal.

Nor is it to be forgotten that in 1920 Ohio furnished both the candidates for President in the persons of James M. Cox, Democrat, and Warren

A few men seem to have the notion that organization is a necessary evil. But, good or evil, it is the surest way to accomplish things.

To be organized financially is to have a definite plan worked out whereby progress in money matters is reasonably assured.

A definite financial programme is an essential factor in money management. If you have not yet outlined one for 1928, Potters National will be pleased to give you all possible assistance in doing so.

BOSTON HERALD INVITES PEN OF DR. M'LEOD

Reference Made to Former Pastor and Family.

YULE EDITION

Newspaper Also Carries Fencing Picture of Daughter.

Reference to his arrival in the city as a part of Boston church adjustments during 1927 and insertion of a special Yuletide observation by Dr. Donald W. MacLeod, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, was made by the Boston Herald in Christmas supplement to its regular edition.

Mention of Mrs. MacLeod as a "member of the D. A. R., a cousin of the late President Harding and descendant of an old New England family" was also made. In addition the regular section of the paper carried a picture of their younger daughter, Miss Christine MacLeod, fencing with a girl schoolmate on the gymnasium floor of the Boston university of which she and her sister, Miss Martha MacLeod, are students.

Entitled "Christmas Time in the Church" the religious contribution of the newspaper consisted of 18 pages and abandoned throughout with special articles about the day and its meaning by clergymen of the Hub City.

Edited by Marian Gillespie Perkins, the eighteen pages consisted entirely of statements by the state's governor, residing bishops and ministers and carrying reproductions of the city's churches and their announcements, each denomination having its own page.

Of further interest to East Liverpool residents is the devotion in it of an entire page to a contribution by Bishop William F. Anderson, formerly head of the Cincinnati area of Methodism, who as such officially directed in the background the building of the First M. E. church here which recently celebrated its centennial.

Artistic designs in keeping with the spirit of the day embellished all the supplement's pages, giving the whole an appealing appearance.

Dr. MacLeod's contribution, "Way Jesus Took to Reach Purpose" was honored with a place on the special section's first page directly under Gov. Fuller's "Greeting to Churches," and alongside its leading article, "The Three Wise Men," by the Rt. Rev. Charles L. Slattery, D. D., Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts.

Sore Throat Is Dangerous

Thoxine Relieves Quickly

Don't neglect sore throat—it often leads to tonsillitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Take Thoxine, a famous physician's prescription, which is remarkably successful because it works on a new principle—goes direct to the cause not reached by gargles and patent medicines and brings relief within 15 minutes, or money back. One swallow does the work.

Contains no iron, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe and sure—pleasant to take—much better than gargles. Ask for Thoxine, 35c, 60c, and $1.00. At all druggists.

Others getting first page places in the special section of the paper were Rev. Dr. Russell Henry Stafford, D. D., successor of the world-famed and greatly revered Dr. George A. Gordon as minister of Old South church. His theme was "Christmas called Happiest Holiday," the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, D. D., minister at Arlington street church, who wrote on "Exiles Can Return to Child's Kingdom," and the Rev. H. Clinton Hog, D. D., pastor at Church of The New Jerusalem, whose theme was "Christmas Marks Freeing of World."

Mention of the First Presbyterian church of East Liverpool is made in the long article describing the changes during the past year in Boston churches which, by "observer," was probably the work of the supplement's editor.

To become the new pastor of the United Presbyterian church at West Brookline, the writer says:

"Dr. MacLeod resigned the pastorate of the first Presbyterian church of East Liverpool, Ohio, one of the largest churches in the Middle West, of which he was pastor for 15 years. He has served as moderator of the synod of Ohio." Reference was also made to his theological, civic and World War activities, all of which are well known to East Liverpool residents.

On the Presbyterian page of the supplement is reproduced a cut of Dr. MacLeod's church with announcements of Christmas services.

The church's quartet is also mentioned and consists of Mrs. Carolyn Rae, soprano; Miss Hope James, contralto; George Wheeler, tenor and Camille Girouard, baritone. Miss Rosell V. Bishop is the organist.

Attention is called in regular addition to a renewal of activity in fencing as part of the physical exercises for pupils at the Boston university.

In this departure Miss Christine MacLeod has taken an interest.

BARBARY COAST TALE SCREENED

"Old San Francisco" Wins Plaudits at American.

Kipling's "Take me somewhere East of Suez, where the best is like the worst, where there ain't no Ten Commandments, and a man can raise a thirst," might well have been sung of old San Francisco's Chinatown and Barbary Coast and it is these regions that Warner Bros. reverts for us in the thrilling and uncannily realistic "Old San Francisco," starring Dolores Costello and featuring Warner Oland, now at the American.

Alan Crosland, who won such high acclaim for his direction of "Don Juan" and "When a Man Loves" has added materially to his reputation in "Old San Francisco."

The story is that of a half-caste boss of the underworld, who, coveting the lands and the fair granddaughter of a Spanish grandee, hounds the old man to his death. The girl on the ancient sword of her family, pledges vengeance and having discovered the fact that the boss is a yellow man, hawks the news about the underworld, aided and abetted by a young man, who, with herself, is kidnapped and secreted in a Chinese den. The boss tries to make the girl retract her statement, by threatening to torture her lover. A crowd of Chinamen who hate their "white boss" force their way into the place and capture them while the girl is spirited away to a secret chamber by a Chinese girl.

The boss, escaping from his captors, recaptures the girl, and drags her to a deeper cell where she is dressed in gorgeous array and offered for sale, to wealthy Chinamen.

Just then, comes the terrific upheaval which is known as "The Great Fire." Lightning flashes through rents in the walls, the boss is crushed under a falling beam, the girl is rescued by her lover and out of the ruins of the old San Francisco, they flee to happiness in the new.

This is a bare outline of a story which flares with passionate reality, and with terror and beauty. The photography is marvelous and the impression one takes away from the theatre, is that of having really been an eyewitness of the last days of San Francisco's vanished underworld.

Dolores Costello is exquisitely beautiful, as she always is, and interprets the great emotional role with consummate art. Warner Oland as the boss gives splendid support. Take a trip to "Old San Francisco."

TIME EXTENDED FOR AUTO TAGS

Car Owners Must Produce Application Receipts Under Ruling.

Extension of time and courtesy for the use of 1927 license plates, where automobile owners can show receipt for having applied for 1928 tags prior to January 1, was announced yesterday by Sheriff Love of Brooke county, is expected that the same procedure will be followed in Hancock county.

Corporal Long, of the West Virginia state police department, patrolling Brooke and Hancock counties, said today that information from the state police headquarters, Sunday, that Captain Haymen had informed him that the state police were taking no action on the use of license plates. He further said that those using 1927 plates and who could show receipt for having applied for the 1928 tags, would not be arrested.

Chief of Police H. L. Brooks of Weirton and Chief of Police Lee Chambers of Follinsbee, were of the opinion that such tags as taken by Sheriff Love would be their policy in the matter, with the extension of time to all who had applied for their plates prior to January 1.

While Sheriff J. A. Tope of Hancock county could not be reached, attaches of his office in New Cumberland, said that unless different orders were received today, that courtesy would be extended by that office, in event application for the 1928 tags had been made.

Information recently sent out by the state road commission to the effect that officers in the various counties and particular the state police had operated their machines with 1927 license tags, after midnight, December 31, proved erroneous in a checkup, on Monday. No orders or information regarding the license tags, had been received up to noon on Monday.

Captain Haymen of the state constabulary, Parkersburg, told district state officers, to await official orders from the state superintendent of police, before taking any action on the license matter or making any arrests.

Annual pageant was given Sunday night in St. Matthew's Episcopal church by members of the Sunday school. Songs, reading and recitations were featured.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headache, rheumatic twinges, tired liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; make a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

HEALTH
For Parents

The wise mother gives little heed to "diets" for her growing boy or girl, and worries not at all about their bowels. A little fig syrup gives all the help, and has none of the harm that's found in habit-forming laxatives.

Have you a boy or girl whose food doesn't seem to nourish as it should? Let them eat the same things, and just treat them to a daily spoonful of this rich, fruity syrup; watch them gain weight, see how their cheeks fill out and how appetite and assimilation improve! And a few drops will do remarkable things for an ailing infant. California Fig Syrup is a purely vegetable product, so parents need have no hesitancy in giving it to infants.

California Fig Syrup is not expensive; all dealers charge but sixty cents for a generous bottle. Just make certain that it is the California product; say "California" in asking for it.

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story!

Are You Charging
Off Depreciation
On Yourself?

Every successful businessman knows that a certain sum must be charged off each year for depreciation on his plant. Are you charging off something on yourself for the day when your earning capacity will cease, and you must live on your savings?

Marshall Field once said, "If you want to succeed, save. This is true not so much because of the value of the money which the young man who saves accumulates, but because of the infinitely greater value of the system and organization which the practice of saving introduces into his life. I consider it to be almost the greatest element in making for a young man's success."

The J. C. Penney Company asks you to pay cash for your purchases and carry them home, so that you may have the chance to save a small sum each week on your daily needs. It is these small sums that will take care of that "depreciation fund" later on in life.

THOMAS FISHER, BARKER, SPEAKS AT CLUB MEET

Rotarians Hear First National's Vice-president. NOON LUNCHEON J. Edwin McClure Memorial Services Next Tuesday.

Thomas H. Fisher, vice-president of the First National Bank, addressed members of the Rotary club at the weekly luncheon in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at noon today. His subject was "Your Bank and Your Business."

Martin Abbott presided. Dr. Collin Kinsey led the group singing. H. R. Thompson was a guest of Wilson F. Smith. About 30 members attended.

President Abbott announced a meeting of the club officers, directors and members of the program committee at the Travelers' hotel at 6 o'clock next Friday evening.

Memorial services for the late Postmaster J. Edwin McClure, who died about six weeks ago, will be conducted at next Tuesday's meeting when Mr. McClure was to have presided as chairman. Attorney W. H. Vordrey will be the speaker.

Text of Address.

Mr. Fisher said:

"Men dream and talk of money. They talk more about it than of any other thing. Could we by some magic, at this instant catch all words being uttered in every tongue everywhere, the most frequent word would probably refer to money and price."

"When kingdoms rose, often new money rose with them; and when they fell, their money passed away. Nothing shakes a government like the depreciation of its money. The very progress of civilization itself may be largely measured by the pace at which the various moneys of the world have been standardized and accepted by international commerce."

"Today the legal tender of a modern world is the metal disk of gold or silver. It, however, forms but a fractional part in exchanges among peoples. Checks, notes, bills of exchange, perform exactly the same function as money in exchange of commodities."

"Naturally enough, few men outside of the banking profession realize the term 'banking' sufficiently to realize how involved it has become. If you break down any profession or discover that in the last analysis, it involves a responsibility to some one or more parties. A banker's responsibility is peculiarly complex—fourfold in fact; for it involves not only a responsibility to the depositor, but likewise full recognition of the best interests of the borrower, the community and of the bank itself as a business institution."

"In this multiple relationship, the banker must, of necessity, continually strive as to distribution and distribute the deposits of his community that they may be placed safely and for the benefit of all four parties to the transaction."

"Primarily, his position is that of a trustee for the depositor. Certainly, one of his foremost responsibilities is to the owners of the fund. But so thoroughly has the banker insured their safety that today the item of 'safety' is practically taken for granted. It has ceased to be a conscious consideration with the public—though it is still and must remain in the forefront of the banker's mind."

"Yesterday a bank was little more than a depository. Today a modern large bank is a veritable department of services, only a small percentage of which were numbered among the bank services of yesterday."

"No matter how great, you may be an institution, no matter what good purpose it may serve; regardless of any merit it may possess—it is valueless if not used. You have your bank and it is a wonderful mechanism, but it will never get anywhere until you learn how to drive, put it on the road and step on the gas."

"One should acquaint himself with the elements of the Federal Reserve system. First, it is a 'bankers' bank.' The Federal Reserve banks have little direct dealings with the outside public and are bankers' banks. National banks are compelled to subscribe to the capital stock of the reserve institutions in their districts. State banks may at their option do so, therefore the Federal Reserve system was established by the national banks of our country."

"The national banking system, adopted during the Civil war to aid the government in selling its bonds and to provide a safe currency, worked a marked improvement over the banking conditions which had previously obtained. During the years of rapid growth following the reconstruction period it soon became evident, however, that the national banking system contained serious defects as well as merits. In November, 1914, the Federal Reserve banks opened."

"They are controlled by the Federal Reserve board at Washington, consisting of seven members, five appointed by the president and the senate; two, the secretary of the treasury and comptroller of the currency serving ex-officio."

"The function and powers of these

PREFERS DEATH TO POOR HOUSE

GALLIPOLIS, O., Jan. 3.—Two proud to go to the county infirmary, Taylor Threewer, 89, was dead today, having been found frozen to death, on the floor at his home yesterday. His wife was in bed almost frozen when neighbors discovered them. The aged couple recently refused to go to the infirmary.

banks that we are most interested in are the provision for issuing federal reserve notes to furnish an elastic currency based upon the varying needs of the business community.

Teach Thrift.

"Under these conditions a manufacturer or farmer may take his note to a member bank, which in turn may rediscunt it with the Reserve bank in its district. The latter, upon deposit of this doubly endorsed paper, may secure federal reserve notes to the extent of 100 per cent of the commercial paper deposited as collateral."

"One of the most valuable performances of our banks is what they are accomplishing in the way of teaching thrift. We point out that without thrift we would squander our resources and live beyond our means—that we would become improvident and discontented. We try to drive home the thought that practice of thrift makes for a happier, more prosperous and finer citizenship."

"We must teach enthusiasm, but enthusiasm alone is the mother of more failures than anything else in the world. Enthusiasm alone breeds visions—just visions. Two things must go with enthusiasm to make it an asset, to make it breed success—direction and hard work."

"In all corporations the directors have grave responsibilities, but in none are they so heavy as in banks, where they have not only the stockholders' interests, but also thousands of depositors to whom they are responsible for the funds deposited in their institution."

"An active and capable board of directors is one of the best safeguards a bank may possess. Directors with a keen sense of their responsibilities are an earnest desire to live up to them, together with well-equipped officers, furnish the best kind of insurance against unsound bank practice and ultimate insolvency."

"These officials should be faithfully reminded that a bank is just as strong as its management is honest and capable, and that with both of these factors obtaining, coupled with the necessary cooperation of subordinates, its growth and stability are assured."

"The bank is an institution which performs vital function in the community—or rather a series of functions. Because it is at the basis of the credit system, through which all business operates, because it gathers in the small savings of the many, and lends this money again to those who keep the wheels of industry turning, because it watches carefully lest the surplus funds of the community be dissipated in foolish investments, because it guards the estates of those who have passed on to the other world, and thus lessens the chance of their survivors becoming dependent upon the community—because it does all of these things, the bank is a very necessary institution."

"No other single business in a community can so hamper or boost the other business of that community as can the bank. If the bank, and the men who operate it, are optimistic, without caution, then that community will move forward."

"No man, nor group of men, however, can be optimistic, if the institution which is theirs to guide is not moving forward. Therefore, if the people of any community do not treat their banks as a convenience, merely, as a place of deposit and not as a reservoir of credit, if they keep their balances as small as possible, and their surplus funds elsewhere—if the people of the community take that attitude toward their banks, then they are sure to be the kind of banks that hamper rather than aid the community."

"Never treat money matters with levity—money is character. You usually can judge a person by the way in which he handles his money, or by his views about money and financial matters. The spendthrift has never learned the true value of money, and, therefore, usually gets rid of it as fast, or faster, than he can make it. Such a person is an economic parasite and is of little good to the world."

"But the prudent individual realizes that money is both power and character and he handles it with care and with a view of accomplishing the most good. In other words, he expresses his character through the use of his money. He accumulates money to benefit himself as well as others. This is the spendthrift we admire."

"The present and future comfort, happiness, and contentment of all our people rest solely upon the continuance of unfettered unhampered, prosperous business. For it is business, and the enterprise that makes business possible, that educates our children, cares for the weak, cheers the forlorn, builds happy homes, supports helpful religious activities and maintains the best government on earth."

COOLIDGE SEES GOOD BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Good business lies ahead for the United States in 1928, in the opinion of President Coolidge. He told callers today that reports from government bureaus indicated that better times are in prospect in most lines of industry.

As examples, he pointed out that opportunities for employment are increasing, railroads are buying large quantities of equipment, the automobile industry is booming, credit is plentiful and wages are at a high peak.

Shone Council Clerk

The new councilman, Auditor William McGraw, Treasurer Joseph Strauss and Solicitor Frank Hoover.

Mayor Urges Co-operation.

The mayor urged a plan for co-operation. He declared that two of the big questions which face the new council are legislation for the improvement of Dresden avenue and the submission of a bond issue for a new municipal building and fire station at the November election.

Service-safety Director J. W. Moore declared that between six and seven miles of new water mains had been constructed during the last two years and that the water works department had saved the city between $10,000 and $15,000 by not doing the work by contract.

He is anticipating great things from council, said Moore. "With the right kind of co-operation we can give the city the best administration in its history."

Council President-elect Charles Hayes also urged harmony. "We may not always agree on some questions but if we disagree we can do so as gentlemen," said Hayes. "I no doubt have made mistakes during my career as councilman but I always voted according to my convictions."

Water Works Clerk Frank Robinson also lauded the first two years of the Benedum-Moore administration. He asserted that more work on the unimproved streets had been done during the past year than in any other previous two-year period. He expressed the opinion that the incoming council was "one that cannot be beat."

Short talks were also made by Municipal Judge Hanley, Councilman George A. Hughes, Fire Chief Bryan, Councilman Harry Fleming and others.

Following an appeal made by Service Director Moore, approximately $51 was contributed to put the city "over the top" on its $2,140 quota in the Christmas health seal campaign. The money will be turned over to Mrs. Louis Steinfield, health seal chairman.

Committees Appointed.

President Charles Hayes announced the appointment of the following council committees:

Franchise—L. M. Poole, George A. Hughes and Harry Fleming.

Claims—Harry Altman, Harry Fleming and E. L. Green.

Streets—T. P. Ferguson, H. S. Lindell, and Harry Altman.

Finance—George A. Hughes, Harry Fleming and T. P. Ferguson.

Ordinance—H. S. Lindell, E. L. Green and L. M. Poole.

Those attending the dinner were: J. W. Moore, service-safety director; Charles Hayes, president of council; T. P. Ferguson, Harry Altman, Harry Fleming, E. L. Green, H. S. Lindell, L. M. Poole and George Hughes, councilmen; Thomas Bryan, fire chief; J. C. Hanley, municipal judge; J. T. Croxall, chairman of board of health; Dr. Edward Miskall, health commissioner; A. Earl Edwards, clerk of council; Harry Larkins, city chemist; Joseph G. Strauss, city treasurer; William McGraw, city auditor; Frank Hoover, city solicitor; Harry Baxter, water works lineman; Frank Robinson, water works clerk; Thomas Bryan, fire chief. Chief of Police McDermott and City Engineer Play Clay-Saddie were unable to attend because of illness.

POSSIBLE CURE FOR DIABETES IS DISCOVERED

California Scientists Hint Outranking of Insulin.

FOUND IN SIAM

Remedy Lies in Tropical Fruit Which Grows Wild.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 3.—A discovery of tremendous importance to the medical world—a possible cure for diabetes which may outrank insulin, the only known palliative—today is holding attention of scientists at the University of California at Berkeley and elsewhere throughout the United States, the Oakland Post-Enquirer said today.

The cure, development of which is one of the outstanding promises of 1928, lies in a tropical fruit which grows in the jungles of Siam, according to a report, now under study at the University of California, given to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Hugh M. Smith of Bangkok.

Dr. Smith formerly was United States commissioner of fisheries and now is acting as adviser in fisheries to the Siamese government.

Preliminary studies appear to show, Dr. Smith said, that whereas insulin serves only to hold diabetes in check, the strange tropical fruit may under some conditions be regarded as a curative.

Fruit is Cheap.

So cheap is the fruit that five days' supply may be purchased in the Bangkok market for the equivalent of five cents in United States money.

Treatment is simplicity itself. One merely eats the fruit.

The discovery was made by Dr. Yai S. Sanitwongse, a graduate of the medical department of the University of Edinburgh. He noticed that in the case of a native doctor suffering from an advanced case of diabetes, the severity of the case fluctuated amazingly from day to day.

By a process of exclusion he found that eating of the tropical fruit had a direct bearing on the native doctor's condition.

Launching a series of experiments, Dr. Sanitwongse discovered that the fruit taken daily in small quantities with meals kept the disease in abeyance and led to improvement in the general condition of the patients without any restriction of the diet.

The fruits, which grow in loose clusters and resemble miniature tomatoes, are about the size of large peas or small grapes, and have a bright green color when immature, becoming yellow or orange when ripe. The taste is not unpleasant.

The fresh fruits are believed to be more potent, Dr. Smith said, but the dried ones, even after some months, also produce a noticeable effect.

Dr. Smith suggests that a thorough investigation of the fruits be made by American scientists. The plants are so hardy he said that they would probably be grown from seeds in subtropical parts of the United States or in hot-houses anywhere.

REINFORCEMENTS GO TO NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Reinforcements were ordered today to be rushed to the U. S. marines in Nicaragua, who have sustained severe losses during the last week in battles with Gen. Sandino's rebels.

Owo fresh battalions of marines, of 500 rifles each, were ordered mobilized at once and dispatched to Nicaragua as soon as they can be made ready. One battalion will form at Quantico, Va., and one at San Diego.

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers.

A Wisconsin Mother says: "I find mothers very well informed on the subject of 'dope' in medicines. Few mothers now-days would buy a preparation that contained opiates or chloroform. A glance at the package before buying tells her this. With Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the name tells a true story. It is quickly effective for coughs, croup and throat irritations. Pure as it is sure, and worth many times its price." Caranahan's 3 Drug Store.

DONAHEY WILL NOT SEEK OFFICE

OLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3.—Stating that he would heartily support U. S. Senator Alton Pomeroy of Ohio; Governor Al Smith of New York or any other presidential nominee, to be chosen at the Democratic national convention next summer, Governor Vic Donahey today reiterated his positive assertion that he is not a candidate for president, U. S. senator, or "any other office."

Addressing a meeting of his cabinet, comprising directors of various state departments, Donahey urged them to "keep things moving" during the coming year which marks the close of the present administration of state government. All directors, it was indicated, will remain "on the job" throughout the year. The governor made it plain that he does not contemplate running again for governorship.

CHARLES VAUGHN INJURED IN FALL

Charles Vaughn, aged about 25, Dixonville, sustained cuts to his back when he fell down a flight of steps on broken bottles at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Vaughn was taken to the City hospital in the Sturgis ambulance. Captain of Police Conley and Patrolman Toland questioned Mrs. Vaughn, who accompanied her husband to the hospital. Later they visited the Vaughn home where a further investigation was made.

TWO CANTON MEN BURN TO DEATH

CANTON, O., Jan. 3.—Dominick Rosso, 26, and Gus Schilling, 48, both of Canton, were burned to death here when their clothing ignited from fire in an open hearth at the Central Alloy plant where they were employed.

OHIOAN VICTIM OF ZERO BLAST

AKRON, O., Jan. 3.—Edward Daniels, 56, was found frozen to death today in a small frame house where he lived a few hours after he refused aid from friends and neighbors, police declared. Daniels has been ill for some time, but refused to be sent to a hospital, neighbors said.

CHICAGO FIRE CAPTAIN KILLED

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Captain Courtney J. Hodges of the Chicago fire department, was killed and three men in his command were injured while fighting a small fire here early today. The roof of a burning barn collapsed on the men. Courtney's back was broken by a falling timber. He was only 38 years old.

"UNDERWORLD" DRAMA OF LIFE

Picture at Ceramic Theatre Makes One Think.

"Underworld" a picture as frank as an expose by a fearless metropolitan newspaper, flashed its dramatic course on the screen at the Ceramic theatre yesterday.

This is one production that is smashing real in its treatment and that is also as absorbing as a drama of modern life.

It is impressive because it makes one think in addition to being splendid entertainment. The unfolding of the lives of underworld characters in an environment of crime, their methods of preying on organized society, their ferocious struggles with men paid to uphold the law, and the intimate side of their nature in following out impulses and emotions in love and hate, provide the basis of the story written by Ben Hecht for Paramount.

The climax is extraordinary thrilling, showing how a city street may take on the aspect of a battle-field, with police reserves rushing up to a house where a desperate gangster is trapped and has decided to die fighting. Searchlights, machine guns, grenades, automatic revolvers, shields and all the equipment of soldiery come into play when the house is stormed.

The gangland characters are splendidly portrayed by George Bancroft, gangster leader, Evelyn Brent, a girl whose moral consciousness is not awakened until she falls in love; Olive Brook, a man of good breeding who falls into a life of crime; Larry Semon, a crook with a sense of comedy and Fred Kohler, leader of a gang opposing Bancroft.

Josef Von Sternberg, who directed the underworld drama under Hector Turnbull's supervision, has turned out a remarkably fine piece of work. The picture should cause much comment through its faithful depiction in a story sense of an astounding condition that exists in American cities today.

ASHBAUGH HEADS HOSPITAL BOARD

ASKS SALE OF CHURCH HERE

Trustee of Baptist Congregation Goes to Court.

A petition has been filed in common pleas court by Attorney W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville on behalf of Nelson Clark, one of the trustees of the First Baptist church, colored, of Wellsville, asking permission of court to sell the property, consisting of a partly completed building occupying lot No. 14 in Richard Aten's addition, Wellsville.

It is declared in the petition that the congregation has lost membership to such an extent that it is unable to meet the ordinary running expenses. The court is asked to order a sale of the premises at the best possible advantage.

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. ## TORONTO HIT BY $25,000 BLAZE

Burke Building Destroyed in New Year's Fire.

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Burke building in North Fourth street, Toronto, in the center of the business section early New Year's morning at a loss estimated at $25,000.

The fire was discovered in the City restaurant and the flames spread rapidly to all sections of the two-story frame structure getting beyond control before the fire companies arrived.

The building was also occupied by the Doran poolroom and bowling alley and the James Hat Cleaning and Shoe Shine Parlor. The top story of the building was occupied by laborers employed at one of the local manufacturing companies.

The building is located in the center of the business district of Toronto and the flames threatened to spread to other buildings for a time, but were brought under control by the firemen before serious damage was done. The Candyland confectionery and the Miller radio store were slightly damaged by water.

The fire was discovered at 2:20 Sunday morning by a pedestrian who sent in the alarm and Toronto companies one and two responded. The fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered and the firemen were unable to check the stubborn blaze in the wooden structure.

The 11 laborers housed on the second floor were forced out into the freezing weather but found shelter in nearby buildings.

The building is owned by Thomas Burke of Columbus and is partially covered by insurance. Mr. Burke and insurance adjusters are in Toronto today investigating the cause of the fire.

Lodgemen Defeat Lisbon Passers Here, 51 to 36, in Fast Contest; Teft Scores 19 Points.

Exhibiting the same ability at point making that has characterized their work thus far, but showing at the same time an improvement in defense, the Wellsville Elks of the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league last night hung up their first league victory, defeating the Lisbon quint by a score of 51 to 36.

The chief difficulty, apparently, with the Antlers, has not been scoring, but the prevention of it by the opposition. Last night the local guard combination held the county seat forwards to a total of three field goals during the contest while, at the same time, Todd and Teft, the Elk marksmen, registered 15 two-pointers between themselves.

The Wellsville quint had the visitors on the run during the most of last night's game and there was little question at the half as to the ultimate outcome.

In Wednesday's game at Lisbon, the locals will appear in their new uniforms, showing a color scheme of purple and white.

Haskin's Letter

tion, but if he is thinking of being a candidate that's a secret he's not telling anybody. He has not fessed up as yet. He is, however, a candidate for renomination and re-election as Senator, which fact may explain why he is not an avowed candidate for the Presidency, because he has all the constitutional qualifications for that exalted office and there's no reason why he should not start out for it unless he deems it the part of wisdom to attempt first to hang on to his senatorial job.

It is quite obvious that if Senator Fess were even to hint that he'd like to be President, Senator Willis would be considerably annoyed, and that might lead to the appearance of a candidate for the Fess senatorial toga who might be rather formidable.

At any rate, Fess, after being one of the most insistent of those who held that President Coolidge should be renominated and maintaining that role until the President rebuked him, has put himself on record as favoring his colleague, Senator Willis. He has said that his first choice is Willis, which probably means that the Ohio delegation to next year's Republican conclave will be for Willis.

Vice President Dawes, of course, is not now an Ohioan and really can not be listed among Ohio's presidential possibilities, but he did pick out Ohio for his birthplace and should he attain the Presidency, Ohio will claim him as her own, no matter how long he has lived in Illinois. It is quite easy to picture, too, a scene in the Republican National Convention in which the Ohio delegation, having dropped Willis is leading a stampede to Dawes.

Or, if that picture does not please you, how about this one: Senator Fess in announcing himself for Willis said that his second choice was Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and the time and situation might come about that Fess would be delivering Ohio's votes to the man from California. And being pivotal, Ohio's vote, delivered to Hoover at the psychological moment, might well decide the issue.

In this connection it may be recalled that Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, was but recently appointed by President Coolidge the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and now sits at Mr. Hoover's right hand. Mr. Brown is recognized as one of the shrewdest politicians Ohio or any other State has given to the nation and it is reasonably to be expected that he will have something to do with the selection of Ohio's delegates to the next Republican National Convention.

It was Mr. Brown who went to Senator Hiram Johnson in 1920 and tendered him, in the name of the Harding forces, the nomination for Vice President. Senator Johnson disdained the tender, and the solon from California will probably never get through with regretting that he did not then realize that Ohio and Ohioans are pivotal.

Doak and Laber Urge Pittsburgh Springs For Best Results

Pittsburgh quality chrome-silica-manganese springs cost a trifle more—but (this is the important part) they are worth all the extra cost you put into them, and then some.

Get good springs — this is the tip that Doak and Laber, specialists on automobile spring and brake work — give the motoring public.

This sort of weather will put even the best of springs to the crucial test and if it so happens that you run into trouble of this nature and find it necessary to install a new spring or so, why not replace the inferior spring with one at Doak and Laber's and then realize the difference.

Chrome, silica, manganese: The analysis of this steel is very favorably regarded for springs of the highest efficiency.

All Pittsburgh springs are fully guaranteed free from defects in material and workmanship and to fit and match regular equipment.

You can get this service at Doak and Laber's as well as satisfactory work in brake re-lining. Doak and Laber, located at 122 Summit lane, have special machinery for relining brake bands and charge you only for the actual lining material. The job is done the way it would be done at the factory, insuring the customer complete satisfaction.

Curran's Dancing Academy is Clean Amusement Center

Under clean, wholesome environment, with invigorating music and pleasant surroundings, dance away your worries during the new year at Curran's Dancing Academy, East Fifth Street.

Curran's have endeavored to give you all that is best in a place of recreation and enjoyment. The management has gone to considerable expense and trouble in providing an amusement center of a dependable quality.

Dances are held at regular intervals throughout the week at Curran's—on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. In addition, Curran offers the advantage of instruction in practically any kind of dance step—ball room, ballet, toe dancing, soft shoe and other forms.

He conducts special classes for children and classes for adults at any time on appointment.

As a deviation from the customary form of after dinner amusement and enjoyment throughout the week, dancing at Curran's is recommended at least once or twice a week.

Home Electric Co., Offers Fine Service To East End Folks

East End residents appreciate the fine electrical service that is available, right at their front doors, as it were, by the Home Electric company, 455-57 Mulberry street.

Electricity is rapidly becoming a means of expediting and lightening the housekeepers' daily duties. The washing, the ironing, the sweeping are all done electrically now, at an insignificant cost in comparison with the amount of physical labor it formerly entailed.

With equipment of this nature in use throughout the district, the housewife appreciates the services of a competent electrical firm that can be depended upon for repair work, replacements and servicing that may be needed at any time.

Their line last year was augmented by the Fada radio, which they list as one of the best receiving sets on the market today. The Fada has proven itself in hundreds of homes throughout the district where it is making good day in and day out. The Home Electric Co., will be glad to show you and asks that you learn at first hand and beyond any doubt whether or not Fada proves what it promises.

W. T. Anderson Good Coal Keeps Houses Warm These Days

How did your coal act over Saturday and Sunday?

Were you forced to go on shovel duty in the cellar coal bin on a regular day and night shift in order to get a sufficient amount of heat circulating through your home or did you have good coal?

If you did your fall "coal shopping" at Anderson's, the chances are that the sudden, sharp blast of icy weather from the west stayed on the outside, where it belongs, instead of on the inside.

For Anderson's coal is good coal. This East End firm handles nothing but Pittsburgh coal—the kind that comes out of the Pittsburgh district, you know, and not from some other place—as well as other brands of fuel known for their quality and, consequently, people who stocked up on Anderson's products find themselves well fortified against Jack Frost and his icy grip.

The Anderson company delivers, of course, to any place in the city. If you haven't been using their coal, you might give them a ring and stock up for more cold weather. It'll be a long drag yet before winter's over.

Lincoln Service Station Genuine Aid to Motorists

It is the first duty of a service station to render service, and the manner in which it meets the requirements of its special assignment in the business world, determines the degree of success it will achieve.

Chester automobile owners have come to depend upon the Lincoln Service station and to appreciate the seven-day-a-week service that it has been rendering steadily for more than a year.

Located in Carolina avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, it easily becomes the focal point for motor car operators who desire the best in gasoline, oils, greases, accessories and the courteous service that marks every sale at the Lincoln station.

Oiling and greasing, changing the lubricant in the crank case (and that's a mean job in this cold weather), washing the car, keeping brakes to the highest point of efficiency and many other service items are always available at the Lincoln station.

A complete line of Goodyear tires and tubes leaves little to be desired in this respect.

The Lincoln Service station also has a complete line of Pres-O-Lite batteries, with charging and servicing as additional features.

Naylor and Travis Can Keep Your Car In Best Condition

It's mighty mean tinkering with a balky automobile in a cold garage these days.

Cold weather, and especially the cold weather of the past two days, does not help the operation of an automobile any. To perform efficiently during weather like Saturday's and Sunday's, it is necessary that an automobile must be in peak condition, that the various parts that make up the intricate mechanism of the motor must be working smoothly and in harmony despite the customary amount of heat, that the cooling system must be functioning perfect, and that oil must be flowing regularly to all moving parts.

Go to Naylor and Travis, one of the city's expert repair firms, and get your machine fixed up right and if there's anything you want to know about its operation, they'll gladly give you that information, as well.

It's always better to have your servicing done by men who are skilled in their work, anyway, and then you can depend upon it being done right.

While specializing in Buick repair work, Naylor and Travis are well equipped for servicing on practically any make of machine.

Steubenville, Akron South On High's Court Card This Week

TACKLE CARTLEDGE COMBINE ON FRIDAY

Year's First Scuffle With Jefferson Countians Billed on Steubenville Floor; Rubber City Five Here Saturday.

Breaking even in their two road performances and victorious over a classy Alumni quint in their single home contest, Joe Hurst's high school passers this week will start their cape campaign in earnest and are matched up with a couple of tough opponents.

On Friday night, the Blue and White will take to the road again, being scheduled to tangle with Charley Cartledge's Steubenville boys at Steubenville.

On Saturday night the Hurstmen will play before home fans, meeting the South High school five from Akron.

The contest with South, billed as an added attraction for Potter followers, gives the local floormen an opportunity to match shots with three of the Rubber City's leading scholastic combines.

The Hurstmen have already bowed to Akron East, although observers here would not bet on a repetition of the Akron victory if the game were played under different circumstances.

South comes here Saturday and then later on in the season, Central will perform on the local boards.

Victories over Central and South would undoubtedly nullify the effects of the loss to East.

On Friday night Akron South will play host to Youngstown East.

Will Strive For Harmony At Olympics

U. S. Teams to be Placed in Charge of One Man.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—A. Alonzo Stagg, grandfather of middle western athletics, and Walter Christie, who produced three intercollegiate championship teams at the University of California, will not be members of the American coaching staff during the Olympic games at Amsterdam.

This much the writer was able to learn today, although we cannot say whether or not Stagg and Christie declined an appointment.

It perhaps would be nearer the truth to say that no appointment has been offered them or any other auxiliary coach at this early date. The only appointee known up to the moment is Lawson Robertson, of the University of Pennsylvania, who was head of the winning Olympic team at Paris in 1924.

One, by the way, has to go all the way back to those particular games to the origin of the present situation, discord arose between the coaches while the American team was in training at Colombes and, while open discussion was avoided, the declaration that some members of the board were pulling in separate directions has not been denied.

This argument has been advanced as the main reason America was able to win only one of the flat races at Paris and the Olympic committee is said to be determined that the same situation shall not prevail at the next games. One man will be in absolute command, whereas in 1924, the committee named Robertson to shoulder this responsibility and then took away some of his power by placing Christie in charge of the field events and advising Robertson that he merely was to be overseer of the runners.

He, however, was in a spot to take the complete "slap" in the even of a team failure and so he found his position almost untenable. Christie, of course, had his own ideas about the training of jumpers and weight men and they must have been good ones, since it was with men of this type that he won three college championships.

Yet the need of an absolute head, both responsible for and accountable to the American public for the success of its team, was obvious.

To be truthful it would appear that Robertson and Christie pulled well but probably not together.

As for Stagg, it is understood that he went serenely on, doing things as pleased his fancy. I am not in a position to say that they pleased any one else. As a matter of fact, many in the middle west considered that Stagg wasn't entitled to the 1924 appointment in the first place. They thought the honor should have gone to Harry Gill, who had turned out and still is turning out championship teams at Illinois about as many times as a reasonable man could expect.

Of course, this does not constitute any specific objection to Stagg in the eyes of the committee. All I can learn is that somebody thinks he is a little too set in his ways.

Anyhow, he probably will turn up absent at Amsterdam, assuming that he wanted to go in the first place, which I don't. Christie, a much younger man, possibly could prove more receptive to overtures. But, as I said before, I think there will be none in either case.

The committee is determined upon harmony this time, even if it has to fire a couple of very reliable athletes.

AT COLUMBUS—Lou Bloom, Columbus featherweight, won a 12-round decision from Johnny Datto, of Cleveland.

AT DAYTON—Joe Sekyra, Dayton heavyweight, knocked out Billy Vidabek, Bayonne, N. J., in the third round of a scheduled 10 round fight.

Pop Warner's Cards Beat Panthers, 7-6

Stanford Captures Rose Bowl Event by One Point.

PASADENA, Jan. 3.—The Cardinals of Stanford today moved up very close to the head of the football class, and there was few to say they may after their thrilling defeat of the Pittsburgh Panthers here yesterday by a score of 7 to 6.

All of the scoring was done in the third quarter, when both teams made touchdowns but Booth, of Pittsburgh, failed to kick goal.

Frank Wilton, Stanford halfback, fumbled, Hazen scooped up the ball and dashed for the Pittsburgh touchdown. Thorough aroused by that break, the Cardinals started a terrific drive toward the Pittsburgh goal and Wilton again was in the center of things—this time a hero instead of a "goat."

With four yards to go, Wilton dropped back and passed to Sims. The Panthers fairly swarmed over Sims, and the ball nesting in his arms was knocked into the air. After passing the ball, Wilton dashed after it and grabbed it from the air after it left Sims' hands and squirmed over for the tying touchdown. Hoffman booted the goal.

That play has seldom been duplicated. The man who passed the ball recovered it himself before it touched the ground and converted it into a badly needed marker.

Both teams played super football, but it was Stanford that was in a dangerous scoring position often. Twice in the first half the Cardinals threatened but each time the Panthers rose to the occasion and battered the Cards back.

More than 55,000 spectators saw the titanic struggle between the eastern and western aggregations.

The Stanford victory gave the west a clean sweep in the post season inter-sectional games. An all star western team defeated a similar eastern team at San Francisco on Dec. 26, and California, giving the dope bucket a derisive kick, won from Pennsylvania at Berkeley last Saturday.

Whitey Gets Trial

The proposed reorganization of the Chicago Cubs' infield, made necessary by the trading of Second Baseman Sparky Adams to the Pittsburgh Pirates for Outfielder Cuyler, will find Whitey Bowman, shown above, a Blue Ridge recruit, in the fight for a regular berth. He already has received orders to join the vanguard of Cubs for spring training in February.

Vidabek Goes Down Before Sekyra's Right

Bayonne Heavy is Kayoed in Third of 10-rounder.

DAYTON, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Billy Vidabek, Bayonne, N. J., heavyweight fighter, went down under a terrific right punch to the head delivered by Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, in the third round of their scheduled 10 round fight here yesterday afternoon.

The fight was fairly even during the first two rounds and the end came as a surprise after a minute and 50 seconds of milling in the third. Vidabek was jabbing the Dayton fighter about the face and apparently putting up a good defense when Sekyra stepped in and whipped over his right. Sekyra weighed 177 pounds and Vidabek 175.

Officials—Referee, Robert Evans; umpire, Dr. A. H. Sharpe; head linesman, John P. Egan, Pittsburgh; field judge, Judge Sam Dolan.

Time of periods—15 minutes.

Y Court Teams In Four Games On New Year's

Elementaries, Excelsiors, Junior B's and Seniors Win.

The Elementaries nosed out the Eagles, 23 to 20, the Excelsiors had it easy with the Ceramics in a 24-15 tussie, the Junior B's five was too much for the Junior A's, 42 to 32, and the Seniors took over the Indians, 37 to 30, in cage contests yesterday on the Y. M. C. A. court.

In the Elementaries-Eagles scuffle, Witherow was the scoring star for the winners while Brant did most of the heavy work for the Eagles.

Evans for the Excelsiors, with seven baskets, was the big noise in the point making for this crew while Pierson starred for the Ceramics.

McConville for the Seniors and Beteridge for the Indians were the chief scorers in the afternoon engagement.
